Imagine waking up in a hospital room with no memory at all. Imagine that the first person to explain anything to you, told you that you weren't human. That is what happened to Jane Doe. Upon waking in a hospital, a man enters her room and tells her that she is a Mystik-lykos, a Greek term meaning secret wolf or werewolf, and that she needs to leave the hospital with him before the hospital locks her in to study her rapidly-healing body. With no other choice, Jane leaves with him and hopes that she isn't facing more danger in his company than she would inside the hospital.

Assuming that foul-play is the reason Jane ended up in her current situation, Dirks Alpha commands him to protect her and to find out what happened to her.

Throughout her journey to find the truth, Jane realizes that her memory isnt the only thing she is lacking. She has a hole inside of her that she soon discovers is because she hasnt found her mate.

Longing for a life that she doesnt have and one she cant remember, Jane trudges on. When will she find her mate and discover her past? When she does find her mate, will their bond be strong enough to last if her past comes back to haunt her?
